DETAILED ACTION

Election/Restriction

1. Restriction to one of the following inventions is required under 35 U.S.C. 121:
 - I. Claims 1-12, & 17, drawn to a capacitor, classified in class 361, subclass 306.3.
 - II. Claims 13-16, & 18-23, drawn to a system (electric), classified in class 361, subclass 782.
 - III. Claims 24-29, drawn to a method of forming an electronic component, classified in class 156, subclass 89.12.

2. The inventions are distinct, each from the other because of the following reasons:

Inventions II and I are related as combination and subcombination. Inventions in this relationship are distinct if it can be shown that (1) the combination as claimed does not require the particulars of the subcombination as claimed for patentability, and (2) that the subcombination has utility by itself or in other combinations (MEP. § 806.05(c)). In the instant case, the combination as claimed does not require the particulars of the subcombination as claimed because the capacitor does not require a plurality of vias, a controlled collapse chip connection, a plurality of pads, and a plurality of first and second electrode layers interlaced with each other. The subcombination has separate utility such as capacitor used in an electronic system without a die, and the plurality of conductive layers embedded in the dielectric (wherein the vias connect thereto) can form a resistive element.

3. Inventions III and I are related as process of making and product made. The inventions are distinct if either or both of the following can be shown: (1) that the process as claimed can be used to make other and materially different product or (2) that the product as claimed can be made by another and materially different process (MEP. § 806.05(f)). In the instant case the process as claimed does not have to form a capacitor (it can form resistive elements -- other than passive components within a stack).

4. Inventions III and II are related as process of making and product made. The inventions are distinct if either or both of the following can be shown: (1) that the process as claimed can be used to make other and materially different product or (2) that the product as claimed can be made by another and materially different process (MEP. § 806.05(f)). In the instant case the process as claimed does not have to form a capacitor (it can form resistive elements -- other passive components within a ceramic stack).

5. Because these inventions are distinct for the reasons given above and have acquired a separate status in the art as shown by their different classification, restriction for examination purposes as indicated is proper.

6. A telephone call was made to Mr. Danny Padys on 1/11/01 to request an oral election to the above restriction requirement, but did not result in an election being made.

Applicant is advised that the reply to this requirement to be complete must include an election of the invention to be examined even though the requirement be traversed (37 CAR 1.143).
